The Louisville Youth Football Memorial each year hands out scholarships to football players wanting to further their education. The football player must have played in Little Leopards and the Louisville High School Football program.

The scholarships awarded to students are named in honor of past Little Leopard players, coaches, officers, or members of the Louisville Youth Football memorial. (The honorees' names are listed on the front of the program.)

Each of the honorees spent many years of devoted service helping these young boys learn football and move up to play in the high school program. They provided unwavering support for the LL program by not only volunteering their time, but also by becoming an inspiration to the players on and off the field, both socially and athletically.

This support often would play a role in their decisions as they become adults and ultimately prepare them to become better citizens, advance their education, and have families of their own.

The Louisville Youth Football
Memorial has again offered
5 scholarships at $1000 each.

2020 Recipients:

Ryan Pukys (Leo McKimm Award)
Colton Jones (Butch Peer Award)
Carter Rode (Doyle Schmucker Award)
Davis Burick (Carl Cozy Award)
Vincent Fehn (Walt Metzger Award)

That brings the total to 82
